WARDEN'S REPORT

In September of 2015 I joined Trinity as the eighth Warden, and it gives me great pleasure to join my colleagues to report on our accomplishments.

It was another successful year for Trinity, with strong demand for all our programs generating great optimism for the future of the College.

We also shared times of sorrow. In January, the Trinity community was saddened by the passing of young alumnus Rudi van Breda (TC 2011). In remembrance of Rudi, a keen sportsman who rowed for Trinity, the College Boat Club commissioned a memorial oar to be mounted in the Billiards Room. A memorial service saw a full Chapel with current students, alumni, Rudi's friends and staff. In the midst of significant sorrow, it was a fine celebration of Rudi's life.

We were deeply saddened by the passing of Professor Robin Sharwood AM, fourth Warden of Trinity. For over 50 years, Professor Sharwood, who had distinguished academic and legal careers, made an extraordinary contribution to the life and culture of Trinity. He was a Senior Fellow, an important advocate of the Theological School, and gifted to the College many precious pieces from his collection of fine art.

My colleagues will report more fully from their various divisions, but I am delighted to draw your attention to the following:

The excellent academic achievements of the students of the Residential College were equalled by their achievements in sports and the Arts. The College won the Intercollegiate Arts Shield, the men won the Cowan Cup, the women came second in the Holmes Shield, and the College overall came second in the Tickner Cup.

The Theological School, offering both online and face-to-face study options, and a faculty of national and international scholars, attracted strong enrolments in undergraduate and postgraduate coursework, and the Higher Degree by Research Program. The Trinity community had unique opportunities to raise funds for the Theological School through events such as a viewing at St Paul's Cathedral of Walk the Camino Way, an exhibition and sale of photographs, and the inaugural Archbishop's Dinner in August.

The College continued to host an exceptionally vast range of events. We welcomed Lady Hale as the Caldwell Lecturer, and Kevin Rudd as the Rowan Williams Lecturer for a meeting of the Board of the Colleges of the Anglican Communion. We hosted dinners with the Minister of Trade, The Honourable Andrew Robb AO, Vice-Chancellor of the University of Melbourne, Professor Glyn Davis AC, and the Federal Threatened Species Commissioner, Mr Gregory Andrews. The Chaplain Samuel Dow organised a preaching series on War and Peace at the Sunday Evensongs. Speakers included historians Dr Alan Gregory and Professor Geoffrey Blainey, peace activist Jessica Morrison, Principal of JCH Dr Damian Powell, and the Trinity Provost, Mr Campbell Bairstow.

In October, Trinity celebrated 25 years of our internationally acclaimed Foundation Studies program. The first intake of students in 1990 was just 56 students; more than 1,300 students commenced in the program in 2015. The original Executive Director of the program, Denis White, along with members of the program's initial supervising committee, and Dr Rosemary Blight, one of the key program designers, were amongst the esteemed guests who celebrated the anniversary with hundreds of Foundations Studies students on the Bulpaddock.

We continued to develop our programs for Indigenous students, supporting the transition into tertiary studies and hosting programs for secondary school students. The Bachelor of Science Extended program for Indigenous students commenced in 2015, which we trust will follow in the footsteps of the BA Extended, now in its seventh year. One of our resident Indigenous students, Rona Glynn-McDonald, was awarded a prestigious UN internship.

In January 2015, to celebrate the commencement of the construction of the Gateway building, the Vice-Chancellor of the University of Melbourne, Professor Glyn Davis, had the honour of turning the ceremonial soil at the site. By the end of the year, the Gateway was well underway and on track to open as planned in July 2016.

As I reflect on 2015, I thank Provost Campbell Bairstow for his leadership as Acting Warden during the 18 months since Revd Professor Andrew McGowan left Trinity to take up an appointment at the Berkeley Divinity School at Yale.

For the support and warm welcome I have received, I thank the Council, Chair, members of the Board and subcommittees, Fellows, alumni, staff and of course students.

All with best wishes,

Professor Ken Hinchcliff

Warden

COUNCIL

The 40-member Council consists of representatives of all major sectors of the Trinity College community, including students, staff, alumni, donors, the Church and the University of Melbourne, presided over by the Archbishop of Melbourne. The Council meets twice each year.

In May, the Council considered and approved the 2014 Annual Report of the College, and appointed Mr Ian Solomon, Chair of the Executive Committee of the Foundation, for a two-year term as a member of the Board; and Ms Kerry Gleeson, to assume the next vacancy as it arises.

It appointed Associate Professor Michelle Livett, Associate Dean and Program Director, Undergraduate Programs, Faculty of Science, University of Melbourne, and Mr Philip Kent, University of Melbourne Librarian and Executive Director of Collections for three-year terms on Council.

In October the Council reappointed Mr Rick Tudor to the Board for a further term of two years; and elected Mr Laurie Cox AO, and Professor Peter McPhee AM, as new Honorary Fellows of the College.

The Council heard from the Warden, who reflected on his first nine weeks in the role, and discussed plans for the future, including a new strategic planning process to support the College's three divisions and answer the question, 'Where do we go from here?'.

BOARD

The Board monitors the College's performance by way of monthly financial and executive reports, and through the deliberations and reports of the various subcommittees. The Board also undertakes an annual self-evaluation survey.

The Board has committees that oversee Buildings and Grounds, Finance and Audit, Governance, Investment Management and the Theological School. Following the Board's review of the College's governance structure in 2014, the Governance and Nominations Committee combined with the Remuneration Committee in March, and the Pathways School Business Committee was formed (August) to be responsible for the overall organisation and effectiveness of the Pathways School.

During 2015, the Board held seven meetings. Key discussions included international strategy, the Gateway building, the Annual Risk Review, operating and capital budgets, fundraising and future arrangements with the University of Melbourne related to Foundation Studies. The Board also approved a range of major infrastructure projects including the Cowan renovation.

The Board was pleased to welcome to the Board the eighth Warden, Professor Ken Hinchcliff; appoint Professor Margaret Sheil, Mr Ian Solomon and Ms Kerry Gleeson; and reappoint Mr Charles Sitch and Mr Rick Tudor.

Mr Jack Dawson followed Mr Jack Young as Senior Student of the College, an ex officio position on the Board. The Board farewelled and thanked Ms Kathleen Bailey-Lord and Mr Stuart Gooley at the conclusion of their terms of eight years on the Board in October and December respectively.

FINANCIAL PERFORMANCE

The tables below show a breakdown of the consolidated income and expenditure for the College and the Foundation for the year to 31 December 2015.

The College generates most of its income from fees, but the many generous donations received during the year also make an important contribution to the life of the College. For example, in 2015 funds were donated for scholarships, teaching and lectureships, educational programs and for capital works including the Gateway building.

In 2015 the College spent over $13 million on capital works to improve infrastructure and operations. The major projects included the Gateway building, renovation works in Behan and Cowan and improvements to the communications network around the College.

Trinity College and the Trinity College Foundation have a portfolio of investments from donations and endowments. These investment funds support the College through the funding of scholarships, studentships, contributing to staff teaching and lectureships, building projects and other College activities. The College Board, through the Finance and Investment Committees, regularly reviews the College's investment performance and fund drawdowns to ensure that programs and activities are supported adequately, while also endeavouring to ensure endowed funds are maintained in real terms for the long term.

RESIDENTIAL COLLEGE

In its modern expression the residential community is a splendid collection of talented and resourceful young women and men from all across Australia and all around the world.

In 2015 the 305 residents were from more than 120 different schools of origin and at least 20 different nations. The conversations at dinner and on the Bulpadock were intriguing, wide-ranging and educational for all.

It was a difficult year for the Residential College in some ways. Already heavy hearts because of the death of student Josh Hardy in late 2014 were laden again in January when news broke of the violent death of young alumnus Rudi van Breda. To the great credit of students, their families and staff, the community rallied and there were many outstanding achievements and splendid moments in 2015.

The students maintained the fine academic standing of Trinity, and Andy Wang, a first year Science student from Western Australia, earned the Academic Medal for the best results.

The students were supported and extended in their studies through an excellent tutorial program, and were challenged and broadened through the regular Fireside Chats.

Each semester more than 100 tutorials were offered and more than 130 consultations delivered. Highlights included visits from Professor Larry Gostin, internationally acclaimed expert in global health from Georgetown University, Washington; Professor Andrew Lawrence from the Melbourne Brain Centre on the brain and addictive substances; and Jon Cattapan, Official War Artist, on his works purchased for the ER White Collection.

Eminent visiting lecturers included Lady Hale for the Caldwell Lecture, and the Revd Sarah Bachelard for the Barry Marshall Lecture.

The cultural life was rich indeed. Student-led productions of the musical 'Cabaret' and the play 'The Female of the Species' were outstanding, and the a cappella groups the Candystripes and the Trinity Tiger Tones continued to besot the College.

Students debated, spoke, won the Battle of the Bands, wrote prose and poetry, painted and drew. Their efforts saw success in the Intercollegiate Arts Shield, and brought great joy and entertainment to many.

It was a rare year for sports achievements. Success in Women's Netball for the first time in the history of the College was arguably the highlight, but there was much to celebrate in all endeavours. A consecutive 1st XVII football victory was matched by the All Stars (2nd XVIII), the Women's basketball team, the men's 1st VIII rowing and hockey team and several others. The College earned the highest Men's Intercollegiate Sports accolade, the Cowan Cup. Of equal merit was the student support for all teams. Turnouts to cheer on Trinity were impressive – especially first thing in the morning and on many weekends and occasional nights.

The contribution to the wider society through community services was impressive indeed. Volunteering as tutors and teachers with organisations such as The Smith Family, Skyline Education Foundation and Brunswick Secondary College truly did make a difference, and other campaigns in supporting blood drives, the 40 Hour Famine and Live Below the Line were important expressions of community engagement.

The important leadership of Senior Students Jack Young and Jack Dawson, and their Committees of the TCAC is acknowledged with gratitude, and the College is deeply indebted for the years of service and leadership from Dr Sally Dalton-Brown. In her 12 years at Trinity, Sally changed the lives of many students through her wisdom and good advice as the Head of Academic Programs and then as Dean in 2015.

TRINITY COLLEGE FOUNDATION STUDIES

The Trinity College Foundation Studies (TCFS) program continues to produce excellent outcomes for its international students.

Academic achievements

The July Fast Track academic results for 2015 were the highest ever recorded, and for other intakes the overall results for the 2015 academic year were above 2014 results. This is particularly encouraging since enrolments have also increased significantly, with 764 examinees in February Main 2015 compared to 595 the previous year.

Teaching staff members continue to utilise technology to improve the outcomes and engagement of international students, and in 2015 the recording of lectures became more prevalent and the new Media Studio came online.

Developments

In 2015 we celebrated 25 years of the TCFS Program. Current students and staff celebrated the event with a music and dance event on the Bulpadock.

A number of key people were also invited to lunch with the Warden and Senior Management Team. They included previous Deans of the program, staff who have been with the program since its inception, founders who backed the project financially and University of Melbourne staff who established the project and worked with Trinity College.

The commencement of the Gateway building in 2015 has excited staff and students in the Pathways School. As the building takes shape, it is clearly going to become a wonderful learning centre, as well as a beautiful architectural design.

With the opening due in the second half of 2016, it is fast becoming more real as a venue that will see TCFS students being more visible around the main Trinity campus.

Foundation Studies commencements continued to rise, from 1,233 in 2014 to 1,351 in 2015 (9.5%). Most of this growth came from demand in China, but there were also increases in student numbers from Vietnam, Myanmar and the Philippines.

Despite a number of staff changes at the University of Melbourne, the international marketing collaboration between Trinity College and the University has remained strong and strategic. Trinity College has already opened the country of Myanmar as a source country for students for both Trinity and the University. For 2016, three new countries have been selected that offer opportunities for marketing purposes: India, Cambodia and Iran.

In 2015, the Trinity Lifeskills Club (TLC) was launched. Staff and students established up to 29 different sports, games, arts, music and lifestyle activities (such as boxing, tennis, al fresco cooking, art class, badminton, basketball, board games, dance club, debating and poetry). Two Fair Dinkum festivals were held to promote the activities and allow students to sign up. Approximately 70% of students joined in the activities, and those who did indicated a 90% satisfaction rate.

In a time of rapid increase in student numbers and growth in academic staff, it has been decided that two things are very important: 1) opportunities for staff to come together and discuss matters of common interest, and 2) increased opportunities for professional development, to discuss ways to improve the quality of the education program and student services and to look after the well-being of staff.

The number of Pathways School staff conferences has been increased from one per year to two or three. Staff from other divisions are invited to these conferences as well, so it becomes a wonderful opportunity to get to know staff from across the College.

Over the past 12 months, TCFS has trialled a new Student Representative Council. The students have established the terms of reference for this Council and have been encouraged to organise the discussions for themselves.

On two occasions, representatives from the Student Representative Council have attended the Foundation Studies Academic Committee and have raised key issues directly with the Subject Leaders and management team. Students and staff equally found the direct dialogue a very positive experience.

A small team of academic staff have begun trials of the latest iPad Pro and Apple Pencil to test their capabilities for teaching, especially in Science, Maths, Environment and Development, and Media and Communication subjects. It is hoped that the split screen capability and easier use of writing on screens will give greater flexibility to the teaching of these subjects.

The Deputy Dean, Teaching and Learning, is establishing a small team interested in conducting research that specifically examines ways to improve the teaching of subjects in the TCFS program. Depending on the complexity of the project, staff will receive some time release to conduct the research, write up their findings, provide workshops or other professional development and prepare conference papers and journal articles for publication.

TRINITY COLLEGE THEOLOGICAL SCHOOL

On 19 February 2015, the Trinity College Theological School was launched as an independent College of the University of Divinity, following the closure of the United Faculty of Theology at the end of 2014.

The inauguration Evensong included the commissioning by Archbishop Philip Freier of the members of the new Faculty, and the sermon was preached by Bishop John Parkes, Chair of the Theological School Committee and a member of the College Board. During the reception that followed, the Provost, the Archbishop and the Vice-Chancellor of the University of Divinity officially launched the School.

Also in 2015, the School negotiated an agreement with the Dalton McCaughey Library (DML) to be the main research library for theological students, allowing the Leeper Library to concentrate on the provision of specialist services. Books purchased in Trinity's name can now be lodged at the DML and accessed by all students.

The number of students enrolled through the School in 2015 greatly exceeded budget expectations as well as the figures set out in the strategic plan.

Ms Melissa Clark was appointed as the Student President for 2015.

A highlight of the year was the Archbishop's Dinner, a fundraising event with the theme of 'Faith in our Future'. The Archbishop presided and spoke alongside the Provost, three of our theological students and the Dean. Donations of around $150,000 were received on the night.

Also in August, the 2015 Barry Marshal Memorial Lecture was given on the topic of 'Running on Empty: Contemplation and New Ways of Being Church' by the Revd Dr Sarah Bachelard.

The School's annual retreat was held from 4 to 6 September at Pallotti College, Millgrove, led by Br Dr Bruce-Paul Shaw SSF. The Faculty held a 'Year of Luke' Day at Trinity in November, preparing for the 2016 church year, at which all the staff gave presentations.

A good deal of the year was spent in preparation for the 'Life in Abundance' Anglican Conference scheduled for February 2016, the main co-ordinator being the Revd Jasmine Dow, Noel Carter Associate Lecturer in Practical Theology.

The Revd John Baldock and the Revd Canon Dr Ray Cleary worked in the area of recruitment and fundraising. The Revd Marilyn Hope became honorary chaplain, and Dr Irene Donahue-Cline assisted with study skills for ESL students, both on a volunteer basis. The Revd Dr Robyn Whitaker was appointed as full-time Lecturer in Biblical Studies to commence in June 2016. Stephen Burns's academic classification was confirmed as Associate Professor in the University of Divinity. Dorothy Lee was installed as Canon Theologian to the Cathedral of the Holy Trinity, Wangarratta, and later elected a Fellow of the Australian Academy of the Humanities.

In November, the Vice-Chancellor of the University of Divinity, Professor Peter Sherlock, announced that the University Council had approved the recommendation to extend the current agreement with TCTS for a further seven years from the beginning of 2016. The Board will now give consideration to this proposal.

At the second University of Divinity graduation, held in Adelaide on 4 December, the Revd Dr Cecilia Francis, Emily Gavan Lecturer in Practical Theology, was awarded the degree of Doctor of Ministry Studies. The Revd Canon Professor Dorothy Lee gave the Graduation Address on that occasion.

TRINITY INSTITUTE

The Trinity Institute includes the Young Leaders Program (YLP), conferences and events, and various tailored programs offered with strategic partners.

Despite considerable change for the Trinity Institute in 2015, the Institute continued its success coordinating and delivering leadership and tailored programs to both local and international students, and hosting a number of different conference and events that continued to strengthen partnerships with the University of Melbourne, alumni and external clientele.

The Institute coordinated tailored programs with various strategic partners, for organisations both locally and internationally. These included:

- Strengthening Engagement & Achievement in Maths & Science (SEAMS), January and July. In partnership with Monash University and the University of Melbourne, SEAMS is an exciting opportunity for high school students to connect, interact, be inspired and discover the possibilities maths and science have to offer. We saw 88 students in January and 96 students in July participate in this program.
- Commerce & Environment Leadership, February. A tailored program designed for 14 high school students from Pearson Education in Taiwan. This lucky group of young adults went to Phillip Island Nature Park and participated in a service-learning project supported by Parks Victoria.
- Global Leaders in Science, February and July. In partnership with the Faculty of Science at the University of Melbourne, this program exposed 49 tertiary students from Shanghai University in China to the possible opportunities and pathways for further education in the science discipline at the University.
- New York Jazz Symposium, July. In the July 2015 school holidays, Trinity College hosted the New York Jazz Symposium for the last time. Over recent years the College has hosted renowned jazz teachers to work with dedicated, devoted and passionate young jazz musicians. We would like to thank Carl Allen, Rodney Jones, Carla Cook and their team of professional musicians for their continued support of the program and for sharing their expertise with aspiring young musicians over the years.
- eCommerce and Sustainable Business, August. In partnership with the Faculty of Business and Economics at the University of Melbourne, this program was designed for 29 tertiary level students from Jiangsu Province in China to show them the postgraduate opportunities within the faculty.
- Residential Indigenous Science Experience (RISE), November. In partnership with the Faculty of Science at the University of Melbourne, this program gave 43 Indigenous high school students from across Australia an opportunity to participate in a science exposure program.

These programs were in addition to our regular Young Leaders Program, which broke record numbers in July with 181 students participating, and again in December with 114 students.

At the end of 2015 the College was sad to say goodbye to Sue Karzis (Director, Partnerships & Engagement) and Marc Horner (Conference & Accommodation Coordinator), who were both pivotal in building the Trinity Institute to the success it is today.

In turn we welcomed Katherine Waddington to the Trinity Institute team as Conference and Programs Officer, and together she and Lisa MacKinven (Leadership Programs Officer) partnered in delivering a successful program and conference season. Katherine hosted a number of accommodation student groups, including our regular Delaware North University cohort, and coordinated a number of successful alumni related and University of Melbourne functions, while Lisa coordinated the December Young Leaders Programs with Senior Mentor Shahed Kamal and the dedicated group of mentors.

The Appendix includes a full list of Trinity Institute program students, mentors and visiting staff for 2015.

ADVANCEMENT

In 2015 the Advancement team again received wonderful support from the Trinity community. Each year we are humbled by the generosity of our donors and those who support the College by contributing their time and effort serving on committees, writing articles and drumming up support for our events and initiatives.

The generous financial support our donors have provided meant that in 2015 we were able to award over 130 scholarships worth over $1 million to needy and worthy students.

We are continually upgrading and maintaining our beautiful historic buildings, with the renovation of Behan at the start of 2015, and Cowan last Christmas break.

In 2016 the new $30 million Gateway building will be opened. This facility will be magnificent and will enhance our reputation as a College where students can excel academically as well as in those other areas that provide a 'well rounded' education. It will be home to 26 new tutorial rooms, two lecture theatres including one capable of hosting musical and drama performances, as well as world-class visiting scholars and speakers. It will include a laboratory, computer room, break-out areas and music practice spaces.

Another area of this fabulous building that we are very excited about, and which we have received some very generous gifts for, is the Sir Joseph Burke Cultural Precinct. This facility will allow the College to display more of the 600 pieces of amazing art we own, and to showcase our growing collection of archival material.

The financial support has also allowed the College to continue to lead the way with our Indigenous education, and to promote our internationally recognised Trinity Choir.

Importantly, 2015 marked a 'step change' in fundraising for the Theological School, with the Faith in our Future Campaign bringing in $146,000 of a targeted $500,000 over the next three years.

It is worth reflecting on a few highlights:

- the fundraising efforts for the Cultural Precinct and the efforts of Rupert Myer, Fred Grimwade and Alison Inglis to gather support for this initiative
- the Camino event held at St Paul's Cathedral in March
- the successful lobbying of the College Board to have the College wear the costs of the Advancement team rather than the Foundation, meaning that every dollar raised can be directed toward the particular initiative the donor wishes
- the recruitment of Amy Tennent, Annabel Myer and Sophie Gardiner to the Executive Committee of the Foundation board
- the Archbishop's Dinner, which saw 208 people attend and donate $140,000 toward the Theological School
- the trip to Singapore to engage with our Foundation Studies alumni, which saw over 80 people aged from 20-45 attend and engage with the College – many for the first time since finishing their Foundation year.

In 2015, donors contributed just under $2.4 million in cash, with a further $400,000 pledged for future years.

The 'participation rate' also continued to increase. We had over 650 donors in 2015 (approximately 10%). This is world-class. As a guide, the University of Melbourne targets 2% and achieved 1.7% in 2015.

'Participation rate' is closely linked to engagement, and the strategy of reaching people via meetings and events is working. In 2015 we had over 2,150 different people attend a College event.

In 2015 we identified two areas of focus, which we will continue on in 2016: a) leveraging our Asian connections and the 'good will' we have amongst the Foundation Studies alumni; and b) activating our next generation of patrons, sponsors, governors and benefactors.

We are well placed to be successful with both of these. The establishment and change in focus of the Careers Office, a busy program of visits to Asia, the establishment of a program that provides Foundation Studies alumni with an 'Australian experience' and the establishment of a Foundation Studies Alumni Committee will all serve to build our connection with the FS alumni.

Similarly, the identification of 200 new people who can become patrons, sponsors, governors and benefactors in the next five years, and the focus on these people, will allow us to build the next generation of donors that will provide the support to allow the College to pursue its initiatives.

OTHER COLLEGE-WIDE DEPARTMENTS

ART AND ARCHIVES

As with the previous year, 2015 was a year full of activity across the College's cultural collections, comprised of its art, archival and museum holdings.

The most significant development was the consolidation of the two distinct art and archival collection databases into a single, consolidated catalogue system, KE EMu. The new software has afforded the College a much stronger tool in its management of these significant collections, increased the scope for online accessibility, and offers an opportunity to work more collaboratively with the University's cultural collections in the future where it is used widely.

Augmenting existing sculptural works in the grounds, in April we unveiled the newest addition with the installation of a commissioned sculptural work by artist Rudi Jass. Ventulus – Latin for 'gentle breeze' – is a kinetic sculpture that has been mounted in the garden on the eastern boundary of the Summerhouse lawn.

The latest two commissioned portraits were completed and unveiled during the course of the year. Bishop Kay Goldsworthy's (TC 1981) wonderful portrayal by artist Peter Wegner is a rich, textural work and an exciting addition following her recent return to Victoria as the Bishop of Gippsland.

In December, we unveiled the double-portrait of Louise Gourlay and her late husband John by artist Andrew Mezei. As with previous recent commissioned portraits, both Wegner and Mezei are recognised nationally as finalists in the Archibald Prize, and thus continue a practise of seeking to commission art works of a high calibre.

The student ER White Society purchased a particularly attractive and interesting landscape work by emerging artist Mitch Gobel. The work is distinctive for its innovative use of pigment and resin, and is yet another fine addition to this important component of the College's art collections.

Once again, the collections have grown across all areas through the generosity of our community. This has been particularly the case through a generous gift of artworks from the late Professor Robin Sharwood, as well as items of memorabilia and a substantial quantity of photographic material that has enriched our understanding of what Trinity has meant to generations of students.

CHAPLAINCY

In 2015 the Chaplaincy team experienced a year of significant transition.

In April the Revd Lynda McMinn concluded her time as College Chaplain (with responsibilities to the Residential College) and moved to Canberra to become Parish Priest of All Saints Ainslie. Trinity is very grateful for her pastoral and liturgical roles.

The Chaplaincy team was then assisted, on a part-time basis, by the Revd Samuel Dow from April until July, when he then commenced work as Chaplain to the Residential College in a full-time capacity. He was appointed College Chaplain in October.

After six years of distinguished service to Trinity College, the Revd Chris Carolane announced his retirement effective from December. Bishop Ian George also retired from the part-time position of Associate Chaplain in December.

In Semester 1 the Choral Evensong services featured a fine sermon series on the theme 'War and Peace'. Speakers included Dr Allan Gregory, Professor Geoffrey Blainey and peace activist Jessica Morrison. This series coincided with the centenary of the landing at Gallipoli, at which Trinity students of the day served with the ANZACs. In Semester 2, a five-week sermon series on the relationship between art and Christian spirituality, titled 'Art – for God's sake?' was received with great enthusiasm.

Also during Semester 1, during a Sunday Choral Evensong service, four Fellows were installed by the Provost, Campbell Bairstow and the Archbishop of Melbourne, the Most Revd Dr Philip Freier. Those installed were Rowena Armstrong AO QC, Dr Graeme Blackman OAM, the Right Revd Andrew Curnow AM and Associate Professor Alison Inglis.

Another significant event in the life of the College Chapel was the installation of Trinity's eighth Warden, Professor Ken Hinchcliff, by the Archbishop of Melbourne. The service, which was in the context of Choral Evensong, saw around 240 people gather in the Chapel.

Under the direction and leadership of the Revd Christopher Carolane, Chaplaincy in Foundation Studies continued to engage and support students and staff. In January, the Revd Carolane conducted a third Trinity College and Friends Cambodian Service Project; and in September he facilitated and led a trip to Central Australia for Foundation Studies students.

In December, the Chaplaincy, Music and Advancement teams produced three well attended and beautifully sung Services of Lessons and Carols at Trinity. Collections were taken at each of these services, and funds were raised for the Brotherhood of St Laurence, Anglicare Victoria and the Christmas Bowl.

INDIGENOUS EDUCATION

2015 marked the seventh full year of operation of the Bachelor of Arts Extended, and the establishment of the Bachelor of Science Extended degree.

The Bachelor of Arts Extended program was established in 2009 as an alternative entry pathway for Indigenous students. Building upon Trinity's Foundation Studies teaching expertise, this program utilised the transitional pedagogy developed with international students over 20 years to establish a robust pathway for Indigenous students into the Arts degree.

After seven years, this program is now firmly established, and has become a cornerstone pathway for entry into undergraduate Arts degrees, almost doubling the undergraduate population of Indigenous students entering the Arts Faculty. The Bachelor of Arts Extended is of national significance in achieving an unprecedented level of equity and access for Indigenous students at the University of Melbourne.

Following on from the success of the Bachelor of Arts Extended, 2015 also saw the establishment of the Bachelor of Science Extended degree. Built on a similar model, Trinity provided teaching staff and expertise to work alongside strong leadership from within the Science Faculty to develop a transition pathway for Indigenous students to follow their dreams of studying science.

The first cohort of 12 students gave positive feedback on their experience of the transition subjects, which included a science sequence (Science: A Study of Life and Environment), a mathematics sequence (Foundation Mathematics 1 and 2), a drama subject (Communication and Performance 1) and an Indigenous Studies subject (Aboriginalities). It was a splendid start to the realisation of Indigenous aspirations in the area of science.

These two new degrees, by enabling large numbers of students to enter the University, are profoundly shaping cultural life on the University campus. Where previously Indigenous students have been very much in the minority, there is now an emerging critical mass of Indigenous students who are becoming active – organising events, building a base of student writing, running radio programs and engaging in other forms of student voice.

Through work within these high-quality programs, Trinity has helped to switch the cultural expectations so that it's now increasingly normal for Indigenous students to enter the University of Melbourne, to find and follow their passions, and to succeed in their studies.

The broader Trinity commitment

At the whole of College level, Trinity has continued to build its strong support for Indigenous students as residential students, and to provide pathways beyond University into exciting careers. In 2015, there were 27 Indigenous students resident at the College, and many of them made links, through organisations such as CareerTrackers, to people within industry.

In this work of providing residential places and opportunities, Trinity continued in strong partnership with other University residential colleges to provide an integrated and supportive living environment for students.

Trinity also contributed to the broader building of Indigenous voice and engagement with key social issues. One of the highlights was the 2015 Nakata-Brophy prize for short fiction that was awarded to Marika Duczynski for her short fiction piece, 'Backa Bourke'. This powerful piece was published in the Overland journal, and Marika also gained a residency at Trinity College in 2016 to further develop her writing.

A small group of resident students, mostly non-Indigenous, visited Indigenous communities in North East Arnhem Land with the Lirrwi Group. They were deeply affected by the visit, and gained many insights into the challenges facing traditional communities, and some sense of the big questions facing Australia.

SUSTAINABILITY

In 2015 the Sustainability interns, Bernadette Toohey and Shanley Price, assisted with a range of initiatives that supported the College Sustainability Strategy.

These initiatives included distributing water bottles to students in O Week; ensuring all student rooms had clothes racks and recycling boxes for paper; increasing awareness of the College's goals around sustainability and the environment across the residential student community; assisting staff coordinate community events such as Clean Up Australia Day and the Community Planting Day in Royal Park; arranging expert speakers for Fire Side chats; and in working with other colleges around the crescent.

Consistent with previous years since its introduction, around 9% of Residential College students elected to offset their estimated greenhouse gas emissions.

The GAIA waste recycling system came into operation in March 2015. The GAIA system processes kitchen and organic waste, resulting in a dry biomass rich in concentrated nutrients that is only 10–15% of the original volume and can be used in the College gardens. Based on running the GAIA system on two cycles per day, it is estimated the reduction in waste to landfill will reduce greenhouse gas emissions by 74 tonnes per annum. The current supplier of wholesale fruit and vegetables to the College caterers is trialing the biomass on its own farms, and will be providing the College with a report on how this has affected their crops and yields in early 2016.

A new Environmental and Sustainable Coastal Discovery Program was introduced into the Young Leaders programs, attracting 15 young leaders into the July programs.

A number of College reports, such as the Trinity College Annual Report, are now available online, thereby reducing the quantity of printed reports.

The Carbon Reduction Institute was engaged in the fourth quarter of 2015 to undertake a carbon audit of the College. Their report will be available in early 2016, which will provide the College with the opportunity to assess how we are performing against the milestones and 2022 targets set out in the Sustainability Plan (October 2010).

MUSIC

The Choir enjoyed an exceptional year under the direction of Jonathan Grieves-Smith and the leadership of able senior choristers.

In 2015 the Choir, some 29 voices strong, sang with great beauty and conviction. They made a wonderful contribution to the worship and liturgical life of the College, and earned wide acclaim for excellence in sacred choral music.

Highlights included a special Service of Evensong to celebrate the commencement of the newly independent Trinity College Theological School, a reimagined Service of Tenebrae, the Service of Installation for the Eighth Warden, and the annual season of Lessons and Carols.

The Choir travelled twice. The first trip featured a lunchtime concert and mid-week Evensong at St James' King Street in Sydney, a concert in partnership with the St Peter's Cathedral Choir in Adelaide, and then Sunday mass.

In Western Australia the Choir sang a lunchtime concert and mid-week Evensong at St George's Cathedral and travelled to the Benedictine monastery in New Norcia for a St Benedict's Day mass. Musical highlights of the trip were the singing of the Duruflé Requiem, Praulins' Mass and original compositions by Trinity choristers Lachlan McDonald and Daniel Riley.

The other excursion was to Hobart for a return visit. The Choir gave a recital on Saturday evening and then sang Mass on Sunday at St David's Cathedral.

The Choir was also engaged in two important memorial occasions. The first was a Service of Thanksgiving in the Trinity Chapel for the life of young alumnus, Rudi van Breda. Later in the year the Choir sang at St Paul's Cathedral for the funeral of the Fourth Warden of Trinity, Professor Robin Sharwood, and several weeks later at the requiem mass at Trinity for the interment of Professor Robin Sharwood's ashes.

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGY SERVICES

In 2015 the College performed major IT and application upgrades, and managed four significant tenders to great effect.

One of the projects completed in 2015 was a major administrative systems upgrade that improved functionality for staff. The significant change ensures that key administrative applications are current, faster and have up-to-date servers and new IT account authentication technology.

ITS vastly improved the reliability and speed of staff desktop computing platforms through changes in storage architecture, in conjunction with the introduction of cloud data backup systems (to ensure desktop data is not lost).

Given the needs resulting from structural change, we delivered some new IT services to the Theological School.

ITS deployed a new anti-spam email system to block and improve the management of spam email. Around half of the email coming into the College is now automatically blocked (as spam) via the additional system.

We started work to simplify and consolidate the College's IT services and infrastructure. ITS also decommissioned 16 physical servers as well as 23 virtual servers to make the IT environment more manageable.

Given the increasing number of Pathway students, ITS expanded some services (e.g. installing more laboratory computers); and we completed IT and audio visual initial planning for the Gateway building.

Telephone Call Line Identifier services went live, so that calls out of the College showed a recognisable number to call recipients. We expanded and improved wireless network coverage for residents, and the College introduced unlimited internet services at the Edith Head Hall residence.

ITS greatly enhanced audio facilities in the Chapel, and two of the four College lecture theatres received a complete audio-visual refresh.

LIBRARY

The library focussed on three areas in 2015: serving our users, maintaining our special collections and keeping in step with technology.

Providing service to our various student cohorts was based on value and relevance. This included enhancing our collections both with print and electronic materials to assist students in their study and research activities. We added 882 items to the collections, including books, e-books and DVDs. We also received significant donations from Sir Arthur Grimwade and from the estate of Professor Robin Sharwood. A total of 138 items were gifted to the library.

Providing a much sought after study space and giving assistance and training continued as main features of our library service. The library was at capacity throughout the two semesters with 103,000 users coming through the doors. Students requested items for study and research, and over 15,000 items were borrowed.

A rewarding trial was held with the Foundation Studies History Of Ideas subject. Several groups used the library as a classroom during the month of December and as a result, they became expert library users and researchers.

Several researchers made use of library facilities.

Among our special collections, several of the most valuable resources are now safely housed in archival boxes. One of our prize possessions, a rare copy of Shakespeare's Second Folio, was featured in a program at the University of Melbourne.

Technology-wise, the library remains at the forefront. We started our move to the cloud with the library management system gradually becoming web-based.
